The inventors of this machinery have expended much money and many years in experiments upon it, and it is now offered to the American Farmer in a condition which leaves little improvement to be desired. It plows about an acre an hour, with a deep furrow in stiff sell; where the soll is light, and the furrow of the ord nary depth, eighteen or twenty acress a day can be accomplished. It is particularly adapted to heavy work, such as breaking up Pairle lead, subsoiling and draining.

Since 1807, the premiums awarded to Mr. JUHN FOWLER, for Steam-Plawing Machinery, by various Agricultural Societies in England and Sociland, exceed 8,000 in the aggregate.

The cost of plowing by this machinery is estimated at one quarter the cost by the ordinary method. It commes nothing when not at work.

The Engline which drives the Plow can be applied to most other farming purposes, such as subsoiling, harrowing, drilling, cultivating, threshing, grinding, sowing, &c.

Patent Rights for States or Counties are now for asle, and Patentes wishing to negotiate for the purchase, will please unke application to R. W. EDDISON, No. 608 South Delaware-av., Philadelphia. W. P. TATHAM, Patentee.
